We have had the Chinese Lion Dancers in school today, it has been amazing albeit a little on the noisy side! At first many of the children were frightened but soon got their confidence when they realised that the Lion was just a puppet with men inside. I have posted some photos on the website. It has been a fantastic experience for the children as it has put many of them out of their comfort zone by doing something totally different and overcoming their initial fear. Nursery and TOTS came in at break time to see the Lion whilst it was asleep.

Last week Jill's son, Alex aged 10, underwent brain surgery to hopefully cure his epilepsy. As you can imagine it has been a very traumatic time for the family and we have all been thinking about them. I am pleased to say that Alex is making good progress and has come home today.

Next Friday 16th February, along with the Junior School, we are going to have a non-uniform day. It is traditional for children to bring a donation for the privilege of not wearing uniform. The donations will be for Alex to give to the Epilepsy Charity, Ronald McDonald House or the Birmingham Children's Hospital. I suggest that the children wear something red as Alex is a keen Arsenal fan. I know it is a small gesture but Alex came to this school and is still part of our Ludlow family and it is important that we do what we can to support.

Childrens Corner

Hello Children!

What an exciting day! Did you enjoy the Chinese Lion dance? I know some of you were a bit frightened at first but once you realised it was just a big puppet with men inside you began to enjoy it. Sometimes things can be scary but as you grow up you will learn to be more confident when things are unusual. Some of the nursery children put the lion mask on and walked round the room while other children played the drum. Next year they will like to watch the big dance.

Well done for walking out of school sensibly you all hold your grown-ups hands by the main road keep it up because it is important to keep you safe.

Have a great week!

Mrs Matthew

GOOD NEWS—LETS KEEP OUR FINGERS CROSSED

Good news, we have been successful in our application to Tesco for the bags for life vote. Our school will be in the vote from 1st March to the 30th April so please support our exciting new adventure playground project and remember to ask for your token when you shop and then pop it in the box.
